THE WAR IN EGYPT.

Wolseley's Spies Say Khartoum Has Not Been Captured.

Their Story is Not Believed by the Government.

The Position at Gubat--Plans of the Campaign.

A MESSENGER FROM KHARTOUM.

LONDON, February 14. The Standard this afternoon publishes a dispatch from its correspondent at Korti, stating that a messenger has just arrived at Korti who says Khartoum has not been captured by the mahdi The messenger asserts that he left Khartoum six days after Colonel Sir Charles Wilson appeared before the city in boats sent from Gubat, and when he (the messenger) left, General Gordon still held Khartoum. Government officials do not believe the messenger's story, and state that no official information confirmatory has been received

UNBELIEVABLE STORIES.

KORTI, February 14. Messengers have arrived from Khartoum. They were six days on the journey. The news they bring of recent events at Khartoum is not yet made known

Another dispatch from Korti states that the messengers who arrived there from Khartoum profess ignorance regarding the fall of Khartoum or of the death of General Gordon. The Mudir of Dongola refused to credit reports concerning the capture of Khartoum by the mahdi and the massacre of General Gordon and the garrison. Authorities here announce this afternoon that they do not believe the messengers' statements rest on a satisfactory basis

FLUSHED WITH VICTORY

SUAKIM, February 14.—Spies report a large assemblage of hostile tribes from the south have gathered at Tumai. The mahdi's men, the spies say, are perfectly acquainted with the details of the British victories at Abu Klea and Gubat, but they consider them unimportant compared with the prophet's success in capturing Khartoum. The story of this success has been spread everywhere among the Arabs sympathizing with El Mahdi and all are greatly elated.

SITUATION AT THE FRONT.

LONDON, February 14. It is now regarded certain that an attack on Metemneh by the British will be made to-morrow. News of the result of the attack will be expected on Tuesday. Lord Wolseley's disposal of forces at Gubat under command of Colonel Butler depends upon the result of to-morrow's assault. General Graham departs for Suakim on the 18th. He will be left the fullest option as to the time to be occupied by the expedition in reaching Berber. It is stated, however, that General Graham intends to make forced marches all the way to Berber from Suakim If he encounters Osman Digna and defeats him, General Graham believes he can reach Barber within twenty days. It would require thirty days to complete the journey with the army making ordinary time.

The Army and Navy Gazette takes a gloomy view of the position at Gubat. According to the Gazette troops can neither retreat across the desert nor down the Nile. They are compelled from the very necessities of their situation to entrench themselves where they are and there hoard their ammunition, live on camel meat and remain on the defensive until relieved. The Gazette also says masses of hostile Arabs from Khartoum will soon throw themselves in line between Gubat and Gakdul wells and capture the latter place, and perhaps even push northward and attack Korti itself.

The Duke of Connaught requests to be assigned to service in the Soudan. He will retire in any event from his command at Merrit, India, on April first.

REINFORCEMENTS.

At the council to-day at the war office it was resolved to increase the Indian contingent to be dispatched to the Soudan for General Wolseley's relief to 3,500 men, in order to raise the total effective force which General Graham is to have for his Suakim expedition to 11,500 men. The council also reconsidered the previous decision of the war office declining colonial offers of military assistance. Both the Earl of Northbrook and the Marquis of Hartington urged the war office to assent to the requests to embody colonial contingents in the expedition.

ITALIAN HELP IN EGYPT.

ROME, February 14 Dispatches from Massowah state that the situation has improved steadily since the Italian occupancy. The commander of the Saletta has been ordered to dispose of bands of marauders sent to the vicinity of Massowah by the mahdi. It is reported that the government will send an Italian general to Massowah.

KASSALA IN DANGER.

LONDON, February 14. The report that El Mahdi's troops are marching to attack Kassala has led to the renewal of negotiations with Italy for the despatch of an Italian expedition from Massowah for the relief of the garrison.

English Politics

LONDON, February 14 —At the approaching session of parliament the political contest against the present government will open on the presentation of the government demand for a vote of credit of £2,500,000 on account of the Suakim expedition. It is understood the conservatives will support the request for new credit but will accompany the vote with a vote of censure against the government. Early dissolution and appeal to the people are now expected and discussed. It is believed a majority of liberals, conservatives and Parnellites alike concur in a desire for early dissolution.

The Dynamite Scare.

LONDON, February 14 Regulations for the admission of people to the house of commons are so stringent that almost all visitors are prohibited. Members who ask permission from the speaker to introduce persons will be held responsible for the conduct of the persons so admitted. Strangers will not be allowed to promenade on the terrace, even if escorted by members

The authorities have again received letters containing warnings that St. Paul's cathedral and the Bank of England will be attacked with dynamite

Police and other witnesses for the crown in the case of James G. Cunningham, the alleged dynamiter, charged with high treason and felony, in causing the recent explosion at the tower have received letters threatening them with death if they persist in giving damaging testimony against the prisoner

Members of the press holding seats in the press gallery are greatly excited over the speaker's new regulations abolishing the rule granting press representatives admission to the inner lobby of the house of commons and forbidding reporters to go into leading corridors or use committee rooms Reporters will ask the speaker to rescind the objectionable regulations. Reporters are urging the managers of papers to suppress the reports of debates unless the restrictions are modified, as has happened in Austria

Short's Trial Begun

NEW YORK, February 14. The examination of the Short Phelan case was begun to-day by Justice Patterson at the Tombs court. The court was filled with spectators Captain Phelan's arm is still hung in a sling. Police Sergeant Cook took charge of the captain's large revolver which Phelan carried in his pocket Short came in later accompanied by his counsel. He looked a trifle pale. The prosecution called Phelan to the witness stand After being sworn he said in response to questions of his counsel: My name is Thomas Phelan. I live in Kansas City. On the 9th of January I was sitting in O'Donovan Rossa's office with my left side to the table and back to the door. Richard Short came in with a long knife in his hand and said, "Now I have got you, now I have got you." Then he plunged the knife in my breast. He pulled it out and stuck it into my side. I tried to get away from him by running around the table, but he managed to strike me three times, Two men who were in the room ran out and I tried to escape. I got out at length and made my way to the street. I became acquainted with Short last July.

On cross-examination Phelan said: "I never was in the employ of the British government. I never made the acquaintance of any government officers while abroad." Counsel for the prosecution here objected to the scope of the cross-examination.

The court decided that the examination must be confined to the evidence of the defense, and the witness' cross-examination was continued. He said, "I came to New York in January for two purposes, one to visit my sister, Mrs. Levy, at Northampton, Mass., and to explain to certain persons an article in the Kansas City Journal. I had a talk with Kearney about the article and my purpose in coming here. He had told me the boys down at the office were angry with me for talking to a reporter the way I did. He also said something about an article in O'Donovan Rossa's paper. I told him no man could publish a lie without my bringing him to account for it. When I went down to Rossa's office I had my little boy's revolver with me. I placed it in my overcoat pocket. I don't know whether it was loaded or not. I did not blow about this affair or say I would do it again if any one insulted me. The Kansas City Journal did not call me an informer. It said I gave information of the dynamiters' plans to blow up the steamer Queen. I did give that information and would do so again under similar circumstances. It is true to a certain extent that an English detective got into my confidence. I told him my name, where I came from, and where I was going. The reason I used Kearney's name and told what he said and did was because he openly boasted of what he had done in England." The defense then asked adjournment until Saturday next and the request was granted. Captain Phelan afterwards denounced the adjournment as unjust. He said it cost him the loss of time and money.

Train Wrecking Tramps

LAWRENCE, Kans., February 14. An attempt was made yesterday by three tramps to wreck an east-bound Santa Fe passenger train. The party boarded a train at Topeka and refused to pay fare. As there were no stops between Topeka and Lawrence the conductor did not attempt to put them off but waited till he arrived here, when he locked the doors of the cars and demanded their fare or threatened to have them arrested. Opening a window they escaped, and walking down the track broke a lock on a switch and turned it. The engine was wrecked, but the rest of the train was saved by the slow speed at which the train was moving. The engineer and fireman received several bruises. The wreck was cleared in a few hours. Two of the parties have been captured and the third has been traced to Leavenworth.

Boycotting Irishmen

LONDON, February 14. There is a growing movement in the docks of London and among builders and other tradesmen to dispense with the service of Irish laborers. Fifteen hundred Irish have been dismissed from buildings in the course of construction in east London, their fellow-workmen, other than of the Irish nationality, being unwilling to work beside men whom they regard as possible dynamiters Reports have been received that a similar movement has started at Manchester, Liverpool and other provincial centers.

Outrage by a Tramp

KANKAKEE, Ill., February 14.—Mrs. Andrew Shreffler, wife of a well to do farmer at Des Ehrs, Ill., is lying at the point of death from injuries received at the hands of a tramp who had been given food and clothes at the farmer's house. The tramp attacked her when her husband was away from home, knocked her down and beat her terribly about the head with a flat-iron. His object is not known. He was arrested and is in jail. Threats of lynching are freely made.

CLEVELAND'S VIEWS.

Cleveland Asked to Ignore the Silver Question.

Gossip Gives the Treasury Portfolio to Dan Manning.

Ex-Senator McDonald Urged for a Cabinet Position.

The Democracy and Silver.

WASHINGTON, February 14 Representative Reagan will on Monday send to President-elect Cleveland a petition, signed by about one hundred democratic members of the house, asking him not to commit himself on the silver question in his inaugural address

Cabinet Speculations.

ALBANY, February 14.—President-elect Cleveland to-day received United States Senator Daniel W. Voorhees, of Indiana, and Representative T. R Cobb, of Indiana, who urged the claims of ex Senator Joseph E. McDonald, of Indiana, for a place in the cabinet They represented that the movement for McDonald was an earnest and spontaneous one that had taken hold of a large element of the democratic party all over the country, which must in some way be satisfied. They were well pleased with Mr. Cleveland, and said their visit was very enjoyable. Gossip here runs entirely on the subject of Daniel Manning for secretary of the treasury.

XLVIII Congress

HOUSE.

WASHINGTON, February 14. When the house met this morning in continuation of Friday's session, Willis moved that the house go into committee of the whole on the river and harbor bill, and pending that moved that all debates be limited to one hour and a half.

On motion of Holman a session was ordered for to-night for consideration of the legislative appropriation bill.

The regular order having been demanded the speaker announced as the regular order the consideration of pension bills coming over from last night's session. The first bill was one granting a pension of $2,000 per annum to the widow of General Thomas, and after debate it passed, yeas 143, nays 53

Willis renewed his motion, and Reed made a point that the postoffice appropriation bill must be considered, the previous question having been ordered upon it.

Kelley made the point of order that under the ruling no business was in order but consideration of pension bills.

Half an hour was consumed by the speaker in ruling upon points of order, answering parliamentary inquiries and endeavoring rather successfully to suppress disorder and confusion on the floor.

The question recurred on Willis' motion to limit debate on the pending section of the river and harbor bill to one and a half hours, and then the house went into committee of the whole on the bill indicated.

After the reading of the pending section by the clerk discussion arose as to how the hour and a half allowed for debate should be distributed.

Turner of Georgia raised a point of order against the Hennepin canal paragraph.

Henderson of Illinois said that if there was any force at all in the objection that the committee on rivers and harbors had no jurisdiction over the subject, that objection was waived by the house when they referred the bill to the committee of the whole.

After further debate the chair reserved his decision on the point of order for the present.

The committee then rose. The vote by which it was ordered that the postoffice appropriation bill should not be considered until after the reading of the journal Friday was reconsidered and the bill was taken up.

SENATE.

Hale, from the committee on appropriations, reported the agricultural appropriation bill with amendments. He said the senate committee docket was now clear, this being the last appropriation bill sent over by the house. The bill was placed on the calendar.

The bill to quiet titles of the Des Moines river settlers was then placed before the senate, and Lapham continued his speech against it.

At one o'clock the matter went over till Monday, Lapham still having the floor.

The Indian appropriation bill was then taken up. A number of the senate committee's amendment having been agreed to some discussion arose as to proposed amendment of the committee which would strike out clauses of the house bill involving general legislation. The special clause on which the point was raised was one authorizing the secretary of the interior with the consent of Indians to extend the time of payment for lands forming a part of the Omaha reservation, authorized by act of August '83, to be sold.

Manderson said although the clause may be legislation it was just and it could not be wrong to do justice.

Plumb said if house items were to be carefully examined why should not senate items be also investigated. If an examination of all was made an extra session of congress would be necessary and the committee could not undertake to risk that.

Dawes was opposed to all legislative propositions on appropriation bills.

Van Wyck said. Session after session we are denying justice to our citizens because of the rule of the senate. It would be a little more sensible to fix our rules so some legislation could be had. The senate had in the pension bill tried to do justice, notwithstanding a senate rule. There was every equity in the provision under consideration.

Considerable discussion ensued in which the house provisions for the payment of claims for Indian depredations formed the leading feature. There was some diversity of opinion as to whether the payment of those claims should be made out of moneys held for the support of Indians resulting from the sale of Indian lands or out of the general treasury. The question of proving the validity of the claims also came under consideration

Dawes said there were seven or eight million dollars of those claims lying in the interior department. The claimants were apparently convinced of the justice of their claims, and it was a reproach to the government that they had not been taken up and disposed of. The claims were so large and the fund from which under Indian treaties they were to be paid so small, that we had shrunk from disposing of them, and an end should be made of them, but it should be a just end. We should not pick out a few of those claims and put them in appropriation bills merely because the owners of those claims had strong friends who were willing to urge them.

Coke desired to relieve sufferings caused by depredations and hardships imposed upon white settlers, who were not permitted to follow the Indians and recover stolen property because the robbers were wards of the nation. At one time 16,000 horses and mules stolen from Texas were in the keeping of Indians Claims that had been investigated and proved twenty years were still unpaid.

At the close of the discussion Dawes succeeded in getting the senate to agree to the committee amendment striking out the legislative item indicated.

Reading of the bill then proceeded and on reaching the section providing for the Assiniboines Vest moved to increase their appropriation from $30,000 to $50,000. He drew a most pathetic picture of his personal observations of the sufferings of that tribe in the bleak, inhospitable region of country where the Indians were dying by hundreds of absolute starvation Vest had personally appealed to the commissioner for some rations to keep life in them, but that gentleman could only reply that he had "no funds" The soldiers of the United States, to their honor it should be said, saved many lives among those starving people by voluntarily giving up their own rations.

Without action on Vest's motion the senate went into executive session and soon adjourned

The Markets.

NEW YORK, February 14 Money 1 to 2, closing ½, prime paper 4 to 5; sterling exchange quiet, steady, 4.83½, demand 4 86½; governments dull and firm, state securities quiet, strong. The stock market was again weak and lower, to day's decline being led by Western Union. Some of the prominent operators on the bull side throughout the recent advance were large sellers of Western Union and Union Pacific to-day, especially the former, and they made no effort to conceal the fact. It was very positively asserted that bears in Western Union had made a private settlement at about 63, and the opinion has therefore prevailed that the present break is made to enable bulls to buy stocks again at lower prices. The downward course of prices was checked before 2 o'clock, and in the last hour the market rallied a fraction and in most cases closed strong at advances. All active stocks are lower, however, than they closed yesterday. The total business of the day amounted to 396,537 shares, which is 26,000 shares greater than Friday. Over 45 per cent of to-day's trading was in Western Union and Lackawanna. Comparing prices this evening with a week ago there is a decline of from 1 to 8¾ per cent in a majority of the most active stocks, but Lackawanna is an exception, closing ¾ per cent higher to-day, and Lake Shore at an equal advance. The bond market was less active especially during the afternoon, than for some time past. Prices are irregular but generally closed strong.

The Asylum Fire

PHILADELPHIA, February 14. No more bodies have been taken from the ruins of the insane department of the alms house, so that the number of victims still remains at 18. It is believed the body of an unknown boy found among the ruins on the first floor is that of Milton Sharp who was between 10 and 12 years of age. The only other unrecognized body, that of a man, is believed by attendants to be the remains of John Rowe, which was found in a closet on the third floor. The work of providing shelter for the insane continued to-day. About 125 female paupers were removed to the house of correction to make room for female insane. Forty women refused to go to the house of correction and were compelled to leave the place. To-night 100 of the most violent insane patients were taken from the almshouse in wagons and ambulances and conveyed to the train. One-half of them were ticketed for the state hospital for insane at Danville and the other half to the state asylum at Warren. Several physicians and attendants accompanied the patients. Attendants keep guard over the male maniacs and policemen are scattered through the wards to assist in subduing troublesome ones. About a dozen patients became so violent that they had to be removed by force and confined in private apartments. The danger of a riot is imminent. If two or more patients quarrel and it is not promptly quelled, all will get into a fight.

Officials in Politics.

WASHINGTON, February 14. Clark, commissioner of pensions, was before the committee on payment of pensions, bounty and back pay to-day and testified that while he was acting commissioner during October last, Rathbone and Jacobs, special pension examiners, were absent from their work and in Ohio without his knowledge or permission, that they had no right to leave their work without his permission. He said further that these special examiners were acting under orders from Colonel Dudley, who was then in Columbus, Ohio

The Illinois Deadlock.

CHICAGO, February 14. The Daily News Springfield, Ills., special says. The senate and house met in joint session at noon. The roll was called for a vote for United States senator. The speaker voted for Morrison, which was the only vote cast. Twenty-two republicans and nine democrats were absent.

Eastern Weather.

NEW YORK, February 14. The snow storm which began to-day continued throughout the night. Baltimore reports the heaviest snow storm of the season.

BURIED IN SNOW.

The Town of Alta Again Devastated by Avalanche.

Twenty-Eight Persons Buried--Twelve Rescued Alive.

But Two Houses Escape the General Disaster.

Swept by an Avalanche.

SALT LAKE, February 14 The startling news was brought here this evening that the town of Alta has been nearly wiped out by an avalanche It has been snowing for a week, is twelve feet deep on a level and is still storming hard. Last night, soon after 8, a tremendous volume swept down over the Emma mine works, doing no damage there except to take the smoke stack along Then it struck the town, crushing about three-fourths of it, but fortunately many of the houses were deserted for the winter. The place is built at the foot of converging gulches, and the slides have a fair mark. Tucker's boarding house was swept away and his hotel crushed. The Vallejo works, including buildings and tram ways, were crushed. Two men at this time happened to be in the drift and escaped injury. Strickley & Tucker's and Wallace's stores were injured slightly. Powers' butcher shop and Simpson's drug stores are the only buildings that entirely escaped. A large portion of the lost were in the boarding house and hotel. Twenty-eight in all were buried. Twelve were dug out alive this morning. The rest are undoubtedly dead. Men from the city and the Rocks and the Evergreen mines formed a digging force to get out the bodies. Three had been taken out at last accounts amid much difficulty and heavy storm and severe cold. A rescue party starts from here in the morning. It is possible that some will be alive, as on a former occasion some were found alive after having been buried three days. The losses are Tucker's hotel, $2,500; Smith's brewery, $2,000. Vallejo mine, $30,000; Case's house, $500, O'Reilly's store, $2,000, Baldy Fritz's saloon, $500; John Strickley, $5,000; Jackson Jones, $500, other buildings, $800.

SALT LAKE, February 14.--Following are the names of those killed in the Alta snow slide: James Watson, Andrew White, Jerry Regan, Barney Gilson, David P. Van, Jim Maddan, Fred Cullman, Mrs. Ford and child, Mattie Hickey and four children of Ed Ballowe and two Chinamen.

Hard Swearing.

CHICAGO, February 14. The federal court was engaged to-day in hearing evidence for the defense in the case against Mackin, Gallagher and others, charged with conspiracy to stuff the ballot box in the Second precinct of the Eighteenth ward, and alter the returns three weeks afterwards. J. J. Sullivan swore that he procured a stereotyped block of the regular republican ticket on the night before the election, and printed therefrom 5,000 tickets with Brand's name substituted for Leman's for state senator. This evening a warrant was issued for Sullivan's arrest, charging him with perjury.

The Swaim Trial.

WASHINGTON, February 14. In the Swaim court-martial to-day testimony was given showing that the stable where some of General Swaim's forage was delivered was a club stable where a number of gentlemen, including Swaim who were acquainted with Bateman, the banker, kept their horses, and that Bateman managed the stables. The judge-advocate asked the court to adjourn till Tuesday.

A Duel on the Tapis

PETERSBURG, Va., February 14. General Stith Bolling was arrested on arrival here this evening from Richmond, charged with being about to engage in a duel. The name of the person with whom General Bolling was to fight is not known. General Bolling gave $1,000 bond to keep the peace for three months. General Bolling is postmaster at this city.

The Fatal Boiler.

POTTSVILLE, Pa., February 14 Almost midnight last night a boiler at the North Mahoney colliery of the Philadelphia and Reading Coal and Iron company near Mahoney City exploded with terrific force. Eleven other boilers were displaced and the engine house completely wrecked. John Swaney was was horribly mutilated and killed. Joseph Lloyd, fireman, died in a few hours.

TELEGRAPH BREVITIES.

Indications for Colorado Generally fair weather.

Jas. P. Reddick was yesterday nominated for postmaster at Telluride, Col.

There is seven inches of snow on the ground at Richmond, Va., and the weather is still cold and cloudy.

A cable message announces the death in Paris of B. B. Hotchkiss of Connecticut, the famous gun inventor.

Mr. Van Wagner, the Alabama claims commissioner, sits three times a week in London hearing evidence in behalf of English claimants on the surplus of the Geneva award.

Joe Brunnon, a Texas desperado, who has been wanted for bank and stage robberies, was shot dead at his mother's house near Springfield, Mo, yesterday while resisting arrest.

A cable message was received at the navy department yesterday from Commander Ludlow, dated Villa France, reporting that he will sail in the Quinnebaug Monday for the Turkish coast in pursuance of telegraph orders from the department to inquire into reported indignities to American citizens.

PAPER CARNIVAL.

A Jolly Evening at the Roller Rink.

The paper carnival which has been looked forward to with considerable interest took place at Howbert & Humphrey's rink last night and was in every respect a complete success. The crowd of spectators was so large that all the additional seats that had been provided were filled and a large number had to stand during the entire evening. About seven thirty o'clock those in costume began to gather and by nine o'clock there must have been in the neighborhood of 100 on the floor. The majority of the costumes were very handsome, although some were very plain. A few were allowed to appear on the floor with simply a paper bag over their head, which spoiled the effect of the better costumes. This, we think, was a mistake on the part of the managers Shortly after half-past nine o'clock the gong sounded for the grand march, which was led by A. H. White and wife and which as a whole was quite well executed. At the conclusion of the march the judges, Messrs A. E. Mook, A. G. Draper and L. J. Tell, awarded the prizes as follows. Miss Rosa Long, the finest lady's costume, Archie Smith, the finest gentleman's costume, Julia La Barth and Ulie Welch, the couple wearing the finest costumes, Miss Ella Sherman the most ingineous lady's costume and Irving Platt the most ingenious gentleman's costume. After unmasking there was general skating until eleven o'clock. The Colorado Springs camp Sons of Veterans under whose auspices the carnival was given will realize a handsome little sum from the receipts.

The matinee at the opera house this afternoon was fairly well attended. The play was presented even better than on Friday night and deserved all that was said in our notice of yesterday morning. The receipts for the two entertainments were $440. We shall publish in a few days a complete statement of receipts and expenses.

In connection with the forestry question in this state, and its bearings upon the subject of irrigation, we should not overlook the fact that not ourselves alone but the people of other states and territories are directly interested in the preservation of Colorado forests. The most considerable body of timber in the Rocky mountain region, yet safe from the hand of the spoiler, lies within the confines of this state, upon the slopes of our mountains. Within this timbered area rise many important rivers, notably the Platte, Arkansas, Rio Grande, Rio Dolores, Grand, White and Bear. That the volume of water in these rivers and their hundreds of tributaries is vitally dependent upon the forests of Colorado, no intelligent person can deny. How important is it then that the sources of all these streams should be guarded and efficiently guarded by the strong arm of the law.

Of the vast extent of country through which these streams flow, a large portion can be cultivated only by the aid of irrigation. In the years to come, more and more of the so-called arid lands will be claimed for cultivation. Even now, in western Kansas, the Arkansas river is being drawn upon for irrigating purposes, and the people of that state are asking Colorado people to send them more water. Let us, then, act wisely in this behalf, and before it shall be too late retrieving in some measure the grave mistakes of the past.

We print another letter from Alderman Jones this morning in which he repeats his denials and demands names. We have already given the character of the charges with details, only excepting names. We do not consider it necessary to give more.

The letter corrects our statement that prosecutions against only one druggist have been begun. But the prosecutions alluded to were begun last winter and we had no reference to that time. Those prosecutions were too well noticed in this paper to be forgotten. We were speaking of the course of the council during last fall and this winter.

Alderman Jones also asks us to print a letter from city officials testifying to his earnestness in enforcing the ordinances. This we cheerfully do. It is high and strong testimony in a general way. There is no doubt that Alderman Jones has been earnest in the liquor prosecutions.

Our criticisms are entirely with reference to the present course of the council. Last spring the prosecutions were pressed and the druggists were glad to settle in the spring or early summer. Many of them were anxious to take out licenses at that time. We urged that there be such modifications of the ordinance that the druggists could do a legitimate drug business, and thus the city could maintain all that was gained. But the majority of the council did not choose to make any modifications. The druggists did not take out licenses. Then came the decision of Judge Harrison that the ordinance under which the prosecutions were begun was illegal. We then urged that the city council should not give up the vantage ground gained, but continue its previous earnest warfare against any violations of the ordinance. What has been the result? Since that time we think prosecutions have been begun against only one store. Four others have been violating the ordinance daily and hourly. They have possibly confined their sales of liquor to what is called a legitimate drug business. We do not express any opinion about this. The sale of any liquor, however, in a legitimate drug business is as much a violation of the ordinance as any saloon business. No druggist fears to break the ordinance in this way. We say this is evidence that the council is not doing its duty. The law is not respected and all that was gained last spring has been lost. It is not all the fault of the council, but it is largely so. Now we say that if the council thinks that this is the law that the city wishes, it should also assume that the city wishes this ordinance enforced.

The council might have made certain modifications in the ordinance which would have settled the whole matter. The druggists would have taken out licenses under such conditions that they would have been forced to obey the law. But instead the old law was insisted on but not enforced.

The whole trouble seems to lie in the fact that the ordinance does not make a proper distinction between the legitimate drug business and the objectionable liquor traffic. The council will not recognize the former and yet does not enforce the law for such violations. We say this is insincere. If the council insists on this law being on the statute books, it should insist on the law being enforced and respected. If the council does not intend to enforce all of the ordinance for all violations then the law should express in its text such exceptions. This is our position. We think we have a right to say that the council has not done its duty or acted sincerely. We know of no greater injury to public morals, than such a law as we have, unenforced.

Another Letter from Alderman Jones

To the Editor of the Gazette:

In your comments on my letter published yesterday morning you say "Mr. Jones was entirely correct in taking the allusion to himself." Now, sir, I did not take the allusion to myself. You narrowed the charge to Mr Rolatin and myself by saying "He votes against any amendment," and knowing that the charges were just as unfounded in Mr Rolatin's case as my own I called on you and asked the question direct, and your reply was that they were meant for me. You might just as well have named me in the first place. You reiterate the charge that I have told druggists that they could violate the law and "it would be all right," but you do not give the names. I reiterate my denial and demand the proof. You say "We have no doubt Alderman Jones has violated his oath as we have received this information too frequently and from too reliable sources." I want the names and the evidence. I cannot and will not submit to this unjust charge, or if I must, I want the people to know who it is that makes the absurd and lying charge.

I do not know why you single me out for such an attack, unless it is, as I believe, that you have been purposely misinformed by some of these druggists, in the hope that through you they might succeed in further injuring me, for the very reason that I have done more to stop their unlawful, back door sneaking traffic than any one else. In your charge against the council you say "Every druggist violates the ordinance hourly with the utmost impunity. Against four druggists there have been no cases whatever brought." In this you are mistaken. Against three of those whom you refer to, there were on an average about half a dozen complaints each made, and they were dismissed only on the parties coming forward and paying a sum of money in lieu of fines, and agreeing thereafter to abide by the law. If the charge you make against them is true, that "they hourly violate the law," they are doubly guilty. They are untrue to their duty as citizens and false to their own agreement. I have not time to notice this matter further now. But I want to say that I differ with you in toto as to the present law. I believe it ought to be enforced, and I know it can, but we have first got to overcome the devilish plots and satanic crookedness and meanness and trickery that some of these lawbreakers resort to to defy the city and prevent the enforcement of the law and by means of which they have so far succeeded.

We are willing to go before the people and submit the question as to whether we will have dram selling or bottle selling, or both or neither.

Will you please publish with this the enclosed card that the people may see that those who know all about my course in this matter do not believe the absurd charges.

THOMAS JONES

The undersigned, to whom Alderman Jones has for a long time talked in confidential terms in regard to the enforcement of the liquor ordinance, fully believe that he has been constant and anxious in his desire to have the law enforced to the letter, and the reasons why it has not been done so far, were beyond his power or control. And the whole tenor of our intercourse with him induces us to believe that he never did agree, and never intended to agree, to wink at violations of the law, or pledge the city government to do so.

LITERARY NOTES

An entertaining article on "The Tricks and Manners of a Catbird," by Olive Thorne Miller, with charming illustrations by the ever popular Mr. Gibson, will be a feature of the forthcoming March Harper's.

The romantic story of "The House of Orange" will be told in the next Harper's by Prof. W. S. Hewett, with a series of most interesting portraits of rulers of Holland. There are few threads in all history better worth following than the account of the Dutch rulers succeeding William the Silent, and the recent sad death of the heir-apparent lends an element of present pathos to the story. Among the fine portraits will be those of the present king, the late and the present queen.

"The Brain of Man its Architecture and Requirements," is the title of a paper which Dr. A. L. Ranney, of New York, contributes to the coming March Harper's. This is a thoroughly scientific, yet highly popular, presentation of the latest knowledge of the brain, which should interest every one who has a brain. There is nothing more marvelous than the recent progress of science in this direction, and a number of diagrams help to make clear to the reader how far scientists believe in the localization of function, and to what extent phrenology has a scientific basis.

Washington is fast growing, in the esteem of tourists, to be one of the most beautiful capitals of the world, and the drift of literary and fashionable people towards it, as a winter resort, is giving it a new social importance aside from its political interest. In line with the new development is the growth of a domestic architecture that gives it much that external character. An interesting paper, giving "A Glimpse of Some Washington Homes," in their exterior and interior architecture, has been prepared for Harper's Magazine by Mr. E. W. Lightner, and will appear in the March issue. Among the homes illustrated will be those of Senator Pendleton, Justice Stanley Matthews, W. L. Payne, and other notables.

In Babyhood for February "The Baby's Bath," with all that pertains to it, by Marion Harland, makes one of the most interesting and practical subjects yet touched upon by this magazine. An important article on "False Croup its Prevention and Treatment," is by Dr. John H. Ripley, professor of the diseases of children at the New York Polyclinic. George E. Waring, Jr., the well-known sanitary engineer, gives many practical suggestions regarding plumbing in its relation to pure air for nursery inmates. Marian H. Ballard, whose labors in the young people's Agassiz Association have identified him as a friend of all lovers of nature, contributes a charming paper on "Nature in the Nursery," urging the desirability of giving full sway to inquiries by the littlest ones about "their friends, the flowers, the pebbles, and the birds." Dr. Cyrus Edson, of the New York board of health, writes on "Poisonous Candy" in a manner calculated to make a vast difference in the purchases of certain kinds of colored confectionery if his advice were heeded. The department of "Nursery Problems" queries by readers, with answers by the editors—is becoming exceedingly useful, comprising a great variety of topics of interest to all.

THE ELEMENTS OF MORAL SCIENCE.

Theoretical and practical. By NOAH PORTER, D. D., L. L. D., president of Yale college; author of "The Elements of Intellectual Philosophy," "Books and Reading," etc. 1 vol., 8 vo., $3 00.

President Porter's book has a wider scope than most similar treatises have allowed themselves, but the increased attention given of late to this study, and the remarkable quickening of thought consequent upon the publication by several very able writers, of views more or less at variance with the long-established principles of moral science, have rendered necessary a fuller and more complete discussion of topics. In every respect President Porter's work is abreast of the time, and it leaves no controverted point undefended.

A NEW BOOK BY PROF. RAWLINSON.

Egypt and Babylon.

From Sacred and Profane Sources. By GEO. RAWLINSON, M. A., Professor of Ancient History, Oxford. 1 vol., 12mo, $1 50.

Professor Rawlinson has done more than any other writer, perhaps, to popularize, for the benefit of English and American students of the Bible, the results of the learning and research of those who are bringing to light the records of the past as found in the hieroglyphic and cuniform inscriptions and in the ancient writings of the Greek and Roman record. But he has written nothing more instructive and significant than this little book, which takes up consecutively every reference in Europe and Babylon in the New Testament, illustrating and filling out the Scripture accounts from profane sources.

The Correspondence and Diaries of John Wilson Croker.

Secretary to the Admiralty from 1809 to 1830, etc. Edited by Louis J. Jennings. With portrait. 2 vols., 8vo, $5 00.

The most noteworthy English Memoirs of the first half of the XIXth Century; forming an invaluable record of English and Continental politics, literature, society, and famous personages, as observed during Croker's political life and his long association with the Quarterly Review. Among the most remarkable features of these papers are: A series of Conversations with the Duke of Wellington (taken down by Mr. Croker immediately after their occurrence), giving his own impressions of his battles, his opinions of Napoleon, anecdotes, etc., besides a large number of Wellington's letters of equal value. Personal Recollections of George IV, as given by him to Mr. Croker: a very intimate Correspondence with Sir Robert Peel, covering thirty years of English politics.

"Since the Grenville Memoirs saw the light, no documents have been published so rich in material for the political history of England, during the first half of the century."—[N. Y. Sun.

THE CENTURY
IN 1885.
A GREAT ENTERPRISE.

PAPERS ON THE CIVIL WAR

The important feature of the CENTURY MAGAZINE for the coming year—indeed, perhaps the most important ever undertaken by the magazine—will be a series of separate papers on the great battles of the war for the Union, written by general officers high in command upon both the federal and the confederate sides. General Grant (who writes of Vicksburg, Shiloh, and other battles) Generals Longstreet, McClellan, Beauregard, Rosecrans, Hill, Admiral Porter and others. The series opens in the November CENTURY with a graphically illustrated article on written by the confederate general, G. T. Beauregard. Brief sketches, entitled "Recollections of a Private," papers chronicling special events, descriptions of various auxiliary branches of the service, etc., will supplement the more important series by the various generals.

A strict regard for accuracy will guide the preparations of the illustrations, for which the CENTURY has at its disposal a very large quantity of photographs, drawings, portraits, maps, plans, etc., hitherto unused. The aim is to present in this series, not official reports, but commanding officers' accounts of their plans and operations—interesting personal experiences which will record leading events of the war and possess, at the same time, a historical value not easily to be calculated.

A NEW NOVEL BY W. D. HOWELLS, author of "Venetian Days," "A Modern Instance," etc. This story deals with the rise of an American business man. A novel by Henry James, a novelette by Grace Denio Litchfield, and short stories by "Uncle Remus," Frank R. Stockton, H. H. Boyesen, T. A. Janvier, B. H. Julian Hawthorne, and other equally well known writers will appear at various times.

MISCELLANEOUS FEATURES

Under this heading may be included a series of papers on the cities of Italy by W. D. Howells, the illustrations being reproductions of etching, and drawings by Joseph Pennell, a series on being an interesting group of papers by E. V. Smalley, Lieutenant Schwatka, Principal Grant, of Kingston, Ontario, and others descriptive of little-known regions, papers on French and American art, sculpture and painting, with some exquisite illustrations, papers on

ASTRONOMY, ARCHITECTURE AND HISTORY,

THE RELIGIOUS WORLD.

Notes and Comments

An interesting fact brought out at the county Sunday school convention this last week is that the total enrollment of Sunday school scholars in this city is greater than the total enrollment of public school children. This is due doubtless to the reprehensible practice of some children attending two and even three Sunday schools; but even making allowance for that fact, it would appear that nearly every child in town must be in some Sunday school. The number of scholars enrolled in the public schools in Colorado Springs is a trifle over 1,000, and the average attendance 800. The whole number of scholars enrolled in the Sunday schools of the city is 1,050.

There are more ways than one to fight successfully the plague of intemperance. The stimulus to industry and thrift which co operation furnishes seems to have been very effective in Tottingham, England. Says the Christian Union:

A quarter of a century ago Tottingham was noted for drunkenness; an earnest man started a temperance movement there, induced the people to give up drinking, and to set about building homes for themselves; just at this critical moment the co-operative idea was laid before them, and, as the result of the single co-operative store in the place, enough money has been saved to build 200 houses. In the last eight years this store has returned in dividends $150,000. Even the children have felt the influence, and have been educated to habits of thrift; $8,275 credited to their account in the store, and $3,000 in the Postoffice Savings bank deposited during the last year, are the solid evidence on their behalf. Twenty years ago, with a population of 4,000, there were eleven hotels and beer saloons, all drinking places; at present, with a population of 6,000, there are six hotels, and one of them has lately been transferred into a co-operative store and its billiard room into a library. Similar experiments are being tried in a number of towns in England with almost uniform success; a success not all in material things, but in intellectual and spiritual things, shown in the building up of libraries, churches, the establishment of courses of public lectures, and various other educational instrumentalities. There are small towns all over this country in which this experiment may be tried, with results that would be simply marvelous. Here is a grand opportunity for intelligent men and women to confer the greatest benefits on our manufacturing communities at a very slight expenditure of money; benefits all the more permanent because they are wrought in the character of the men and women who receive good from them.

A student in the Harvard divinity school writes to the Christian Register:

This year, six graduates of various theological schools, fourteen regular and six special students are in attendance, or twenty-six in all. Among them are the representatives of ten denominations—one Baptist, one Free Baptist, one Presbyterian, one Christian, one Episcopalian, one Swedenborgian, three Methodists, four Congregationalists, twelve Unitarians working together in earnest, free inquiry, with a fair mindedness and brotherliness of spirit which leave nothing to be desired. . . . It has been a surprise and an increasing pleasure to every person connected with the school to see in it an exhibition so profound of religious conviction a fervor, an ardor, a genuine enthusiasm, remarkable even in comparison with other institutions of greater reputation in this regard. There is a genuine glow of ancient faith.

"The first creature of God in the works of the days," says Lord Bacon, "was the light of the sense; the last was the light of reason; and his Sabbath work ever since is the illumination of his spirit. First he breathed light upon the face of the matter, or chaos; then he breathed light upon the face of man; and still he breatheth and inspireth light into the face of his chosen."

Build a little fence of trust
Around to-day;
Fill the space with loving work,
And therein stay.

Look not through the shutt'ring bars
Upon to-morrow,
God will help thee bear what comes
Of joy or sorrow

In a recent paper read before the Unitarian club Rev. James Freeman Clarke makes the following interesting statement of the present condition of Unitarianism. He says:

Yet let us admit frankly all the discouraging facts. In some places our body is not so strong to-day as it was thirty or forty years ago. It has not grown here in Boston in proportion to the growth of other denominations. It has scarcely grown, as regards its number of churches, in New York or Philadelphia, Baltimore or Washington. In these cities it just about holds its own. It has hardly increased, if at all, in the southern states. Methodism is only a little older than English and American Unitarianism. Dr. Priestly published his first controversial work in 1782, which was instantly refuted by being burned by the common hangman in the city of Dort. Methodism is forty years older, beginning in the society of ten members founded by Wesley in 1746. But, while there are in America some three or four hundred thousand professed Unitarians, there are three or four million Methodists. We are not now, and never may be, a large denomination. But a small body, if full of life, may do a great work. In the human body the eye and ear are smaller than the hand or foot, but are quite as important. You need in a community a larger number of merchants, mechanics and laborers than of physicians, lawyers or school teachers, but the teachers are as essential to the public welfare as those other occupations.

Is Unitarianism dying out? When I went to preach in the west, in 1833, more than fifty years ago, we had Unitarian societies in Buffalo, Pittsburg, Marietta, Cincinnati and Louisville, in all, five. By the last Unitarian Year-book, I find there are now in the western states 84 societies, of which 27 are without pastors at present, leaving 57 societies with pastors. When I went to Louisville, there was no Unitarian society in St. Louis or Chicago. Now, there are 3 in St. Louis and 4 in Chicago, all active and full of life. In Illinois there are 17 churches, in Wisconsin 10, in Michigan 10, in Iowa 7, in Indiana 5, in Nebraska 5, in California 5, in Missouri 5, in Colorado 3, in Ohio 4, 3 in Minnesota, 3 in Dakota, 2 in Washington Territory, and 1 in Oregon.

The operetta "Prince Puss-in-Boots," to be presented next Thursday evening for the benefit of the Congregational church, promises to be an unusually attractive entertainment. The cast of the operetta has been carefully made, and under expert training a high degree of excellence has been attained. The members of the Macwilgrat Quartette club, who are in town for a few days, resting from the fatigues of last season, have kindly promised to be present, and to assist the programme by giving some of their characteristic "songs without words" and renditions of other popular Welch airs. As this will be the only opportunity our citizens will have of hearing this widely known organization, before their departure for Salt Lake, it should be embraced by every lover of original music, no less than by those interested in the cause.

THE INTER OCEAN

In 1885 THE INTER OCEAN enters upon the fourteenth year of its existence. Given unusual confidence by the people in its early days it has steadily grown in favor until this day, when the publishers take pride in the fact that the paper goes into more homes and has a greater number of readers than any publication west of the Alleghenies.

From the beginning THE INTER OCEAN has stood firmly by the principles of the Republican party, and has, in season and out of season, contended for "protection to American industry." It does not agree with the idea that the mission of the Republican party is finished; on the contrary it believes that, purified by adversity, it will in the near future again rise to the higher planes of thought and action and be completely restored to the confidence of the American people. The most important agencies in accomplishing this result will be Republican journals. If a reliable, staunch Republican newspaper was important when the Republican party was in power, it is doubly so now that the Democracy control the National Government.

THE INTER OCEAN will in the future as in the past be the medium through which the best Republican thought will be given to the people. It will voice the convictions of advanced Republicans without being unfair even to Bourbon Democrats. It will be aggressively Republican without being bitterly partisan, and will give as much attention to the affairs of Cleveland's administration as it would have given to the administration of Mr. Blaine had he been elected. With an Associated Press franchise, with special wires reaching to New York and Washington, with special correspondence in all important points of the country, THE INTER OCEAN will use its facilities for collecting news without fear or favor, and so far as governmental affairs or party movements are concerned will give a fuller record than any other paper.

All of the old departments will be continued. The scope of the WOMAN'S KINGDOM will be widened so as to take in all the industrial and reform movements in which women are interested and engaged. OUR CURIOSITY SHOP, now a standard, will be given greater variety and interest. In the FARM AND HOME and other departments the widest possible range of topics will be discussed.

Of original short stories and serials, the very best by American and English authors will be given during the year. Arrangements have been made to publish during the year short stories by BOYESEN, HOWELLS, LATHROP, and others, and a new serial by the author of "One Summer," and to publish all these in addition to the serials by MRS. BRADDON and other English authors.

In every department of news and literature THE INTER OCEAN will make a better record than it ever has done.

INFORMATION FOR STRANGERS

Concerning the Two Great Resorts of the Rocky Mountains.

COLORADO SPRINGS.

Located on the line of the Denver & Rio Grande railway, seventy-five miles south of Denver, is the city of Colorado Springs with a population of 6,000 people and universally conceded to be the handsomest and most modern city in the west. The town was established in 1871 by a company of Philadelphia gentlemen who from the very outset conceived the idea of making it the model city of all the Rocky mountain region. From the time of its founding up to the present it has had remarkable growth and to-day fully represents in every respect what its projectors anticipated of it. The location of the city is an admirable one situated as it is, directly at the base of Pike's Peak and at an altitude of 6,000 feet above the level of the sea. To borrow the expression of a well known writer, "neither nature nor art could design or lay out a more finished or beautiful spot." To the right and left of the peak which rears its snow-capped summit to an altitude of 14,000 feet extends a long range of mountains "diversified with variety of form and outline, with rocky crags and tumbled boulders, with constant play of light and shadow, with contrast of rich and sombre colors with streaks of snow and dark groves of pine," the whole forming a panorama of exceeding beauty of which the eye never tires. On the north extends a ridge of hills called the divide and to the south and east as far as the eye can see stretch the great plains so common to Colorado, which afford grazing to thousands of sheep and cattle. The city covers an area three miles in length by two miles in width and is laid out in blocks 400 feet square. The streets and avenues are from 100 to 140 feet in width and lined upon either side by rows of flourishing cottonwood trees which were planted when the city was founded. These trees are watered by a system of irrigation ditches which also by means of feeders keep the lawns green and make the gardens productive. The central portion of the city is built up with substantial business blocks many of which have been erected within the past two or three years. There are many fine stone residences in the city costing from $10,000 to $10,000, but the most of the houses are of wood and of all styles and varieties of modern architecture. They are all set well back from the street and surrounded by handsome and well cared for lawns. As a place of residence Colorado Springs offers many superior advantages.

Climate One of the most important features that Colorado Springs has to offer especially to invalids is its dry weather and clear atmosphere. For weeks and months at a time there will be clear sunlight and not a cloud in the sky. During the summer months there are light showers frequently day after day, but as a rule no heavy or prolonged storms. There is no really disagreeable weather only during the months of March and April, when wind and snow storms are frequently experienced. Little if any snow falls during the winter months, and although the thermometer occasionally falls below zero, the sun during the greater part of the day is warm and the weather mild. In the summer, while it is sometimes hot but not oppressive in the day time, the nights are always cool and comfortable. Bounded as it is on the west by the mountains and on the north by the Divide, the city is protected from the severe wind storms which are so prevalent in other cities of the state. On account of its climate Colorado Springs ranks high as a resort for those affected with pulmonary troubles, and thousands who have been sent here by the leading physicians of the east have been temporarily relieved or permanently cured. It has been fully demonstrated that the city is in every respect as good a winter as it is a summer resort. Many people after having tried the climate of the southern states and California have found permanent relief in Colorado Springs, owing more especially to its mild and bracing air.

Educational Advantages Colorado Springs possesses educational advantages equal if not superior to those offered by many of the larger cities of the east. There are in the city four public school buildings which have cost between $50,000 and $60,000. One, a handsome brick building, has just been completed. These schools are well graded and in charge of competent teachers, mostly graduates of state normal schools. Those who prefer it can send their children to private schools, of which there are several very good ones. Here also is located Colorado college, one of the most complete educational institutions in Colorado if not in the west. When the town was laid out a tract of land was reserved as a site for a college. This property was donated to Colorado college at the time it was founded in 1874. Since that time a handsome stone college building has been erected and there are now in attendance over 100 students. The course of study is very similar to that of eastern colleges including, besides its four years course for the degree of Bachelor of Arts, complete preparatory and metallurgical departments, the latter including especially assaying, chemical analysis, blowpiping and determinative mineralogy. The board of instruction is excellent, and includes the president and six professors, all graduates of New England colleges except the professor of metallurgy, who is a graduate of New York University and of the Columbia School Mines.

The state institution for the education of the deaf mute and blind is also located in Colorado Springs and ranks favorably with other institutions of the kind in the eastern states.

Water Supply—No city in the United States has a more complete system of water works than has Colorado Springs. The supply is conveyed through pipes seven miles, from Ruxton's creek. Purer water could not be found, as the stream from which it comes is fed by springs and the melting snows of Pike's Peak. The supply for domestic use will be adequate to the demand for some time to come, and should occasion require it could be easily increased. This same system also affords ample protection against fire, there being sufficient pressure to force a stream on the highest buildings. Hydrants are freely distributed through the city, and five well organized and efficient fire companies respond promptly to every alarm that is given.

Temperance Features The city of Colorado Springs was founded on temperance principles, and those principles are maintained to the present day. There are no saloons or bars, and, under the ordinance, liquor can only be obtained through a prescription for medicinal purposes. A clause is incorporated in every deed to property in the city which prohibits the sale of liquor thereon. In case of violation the property reverts to the original owners, the Colorado Springs company. The supreme court of the United States having decided in favor of the provision, several persons violating the clause have lost valuable properties.

Scenery and Drives The scenery surrounding Colorado Springs embracing the mountains and the plain is grand and beautiful. Three miles from town is the wonderful and famous "Garden of the Gods," in which huge rocks, hundreds of feet high and of the most fantastic shapes and gorgeous colors form a scene which excites the wonder of all who behold it. Close to the garden is Glen Eyrie and Queen's cañon, equally wonderful and beautiful. Five miles to the southwest of town are north and south Cheyenne cañons, both magnificent gorges with stupendous walls of rock and beautiful water falls, giving almost world-wide grandeur. Twelve miles north is Monument park, studded with forty groups of sand stone which look like obelisks of some bygone race of giants. Two miles to the northeast is Templeton's gap, one of the most charming and often-frequented resorts in the vicinity. Five miles to the westward and at the very base of the mountains is Manitou, with its iron and soda springs and endless variety of scenery. No town in the world has in closer proximity such remarkable and magnificent scenery. All the points of interest mentioned above are accessible by splendid drives equal in every respect to the macadamized streets of an eastern metropolis. There are in the city half a dozen first-class livery stables from which conveyances of any style can be obtained at very moderate prices.

Churches For a western city Colorado Springs has been appropriately named the "City of Churches." Here can be found churches of all denominations with the exception of the Unitarian, Dutch Reformed and Universalists. The Methodist, Baptist and Episcopalian especially have very fine edifices. All other denominations, including the Presbyterian, Catholic, M. E. South, Christian, African Methodist and Congregational have very commodious buildings and large congregations. Most of the pulpits are filled by ministers who have filled high and responsible charges at the east and have commanded handsome salaries. Members of denominations named will find congenial views and liberal thought in the social and religious life of Colorado Springs, and also in some of the pulpits.

The Antlers—In the spring of 1883 The Antlers, which in point of architectural design and modern appointments excels any other hostelry in the west, was opened to the public. The building is four stories in hight, built of stone, and cost about $160,000. It is located on an open slope at the west end of Pike's Peak avenue and commands an unobstructed view of the mountains to the westward and the plains to the eastward. All of the rooms are light, well ventilated, supplied with gas and water and handsomely furnished. Since the opening in May, 1883, the hotel has had remarkable success and at the present time is occupied by over one hundred permanent guests and is continually increasing in popularity. There are also two other good hotels, the Spaulding house and Crawford, at which good accommodations can be had at from one to two dollars per day. In both of these houses can be found well furnished and commodious rooms, and substantial bills of fare.

Amusements In the way of amusements Colorado Springs does not suffer. It has an opera house modeled very much after the Madison Square theater in New York and which was erected by some of our enterprising citizens at a cost of $80,000. The house has a seating capacity of about 800, is provided with complete sets of scenery, opera chairs and all other necessary conveniences. All of the leading attractions that visit Colorado appear at Colorado Springs.

Society The social advantages of Colorado Springs are excellent and in many respects excel those of any other city of the same size on the American continent. The society is of the very best people of culture and refinement, and many possessed of much wealth have been attracted here by climate and surroundings. The residents of the city are principally from the older states of the union and from Canada, England and Scotland. There is much social life in Colorado Springs, for outside the amusements offered at the opera house, the people have to make their own society. This necessarily brings out the best social and mental qualities, and has given rise to social, literary and musical clubs and societies, and libraries and reading rooms.

General Advantages In many respects Colorado Springs is quite metropolitan. It has communication with the outside world by two lines of railway the Denver & Rio Grande and the Denver & New Orleans. Twelve trains pass north and south daily, and mails from the east, west, north and south are very frequent. There is a Central Western Union telegraph office and a telephone exchange which affords communication not only with all the leading places of business in Colorado Springs and Manitou, but also with the largest cities of the state. The merchants of the city carry large and carefully selected stocks and goods in all lines can be purchased as cheap here as in the east.

MANITOU.

Five miles west of Colorado Springs and at the very base of the mountains is located Manitou, which during the past few years has become the most famous resort in the United States. It is a small and quiet town of about five hundred inhabitants, but with its four first-class hotels and many cottages it affords during the summer months accommodations for thousands of guests from the east and south. All of the hotels are commodious, well furnished and in every respect compare well with the sea shore and mountain hotels of the east. Through the town flows the Fountain, a stream of clear and bubbling water which has its source in the mountains.

Manitou is connected with Colorado Springs by a splendid drive lined with trees which in the east might be termed a boulevard. Here is a resort of almost unequaled attractions known the world over. Thousands of guests resort here yearly from all states of the union and foreign countries, and many have located here permanently. Everything is being done to strengthen the attractive character of the spot on which nature has bestowed so many advantages. Manitou is not only a great sanitarium but also a home of refined society. During the past two years it has made remarkable progress in the way of improvements, and as a resort has not an equal in the west. "The surroundings of Manitou are particularly charming, and without its mineral springs it would be a favorite resort. Mountains, high and low, shut it closely in. Joined hand in hand like a company of eager children, they press and crowd around the lovely spot, those outside peering over the heads and shoulders of their companions. Calmly the grand old Peak looks over them all, down into the loveliest places."

Bath House Last year a bath house was erected here at a cost of $20,000. It is fitted with every modern convenience that is conducive to health and comfort.

Rides and Drives In the immediate vicinity of Manitou are many points of interest including Ute Pass, Williams cañon, Cave of the Winds, Rainbow Falls, Crystal Park, Monument Park, Manitou Park and other points of interest too numerous to mention.

Climate Although closer to the mountains the climate of Manitou is the same as that of Colorado Springs. Invalids coming to Manitou must leave all homesickness behind and remember that they are not "out of the world," but that they will find comfort, competent physicians, good society and good living here as well as "at home." Those sick enough to need especial care should not come alone, but the moderately sick can soon find friends for themselves.

The Springs. Here are located the most famous curative springs of the country, principally soda and iron. "There are six or seven springs in all. Their Indian names and legends are all that remain to remind us of our red brothers whose offerings to the Manitou of the 'medicine waters' filled the basins of the springs and hung from the neighboring trees and bushes when the 'pale face' invaded this their favorite camping ground. The springs differ much in their properties of iron, sulphur and soda. Some of the waters are taken as a pleasant draught; others should be used only as a medicine, taken when needed and then discontinued; their temperature varies from 45° to 56° F.

Yesterday was Chinese new year, and was quite generally celebrated by the Mongolian residents of this city. In most all of the wash houses refreshments and drinks were served. No clothes were washed during the day, John spending the most of his time calling upon his companions and partaking of what they had to offer. They did not have a public demonstration, however, as on previous years.

Any person wishing to secure a dairy, hay, cattle, sheep or trout farm, or a tidy home in country or city, or to get a nice garden tract, or to invest money in safe income bearing property, will do well to consult the advertisement of the Colorado Springs Real Estate, Mining and Insurance agency on our fourth page. There will also be a short musical programme, and a very enjoyable time generally may be expected.

As will be seen in the advertisement of the Colorado Springs Real Estate, Mining and Insurance agency in this issue, the opportunity is offered to secure one of the finest, if not the finest, and most complete estates in Colorado, comprising a very large acreage of improved and unimproved land, wood land, pasture land, garden and hay land, dairy farms, a trout farm, twelve miles of stream stocked with trout and a hotel which has already made a reputation as one of our most popular summer resorts. HO FOR MARDI GRAS!

The annual celebration of Mardi Gras at New Orleans will rival in magnificence any former efforts. It will be an experience long remembered by the thousands who will witness the gorgeous spectacle. The celebration lasts from February 17th to March 5th. On account of this and approaching warm weather, those who visit New Orleans had better do so soon. The Kansas division of the Union Pacific offers a route from Denver to which, by reason of its being the Short Line to Kansas City and its quick time, there is practically no opposition. As all going to the World's Fair at New Orleans wish to stop over in Denver, the Kansas Pacific will be the favorite route. It is not the only line, but it has hosts of friends who will travel by no other. For tickets and rates inquire of any D. & R. G. or Union Pacific agent.

MANITOU PARK!

We offer for sale the Magnificent Estate

So well known as "MANITOU PARK," consisting of ten thousand (10,000) acres of Patented land, which, from from its peculiar topographical location and surroundings controls a practically unlimited cattle range and pasture, and hundreds of acres of the finest hay land.

Parts of this estate are laid off into IMPROVED FARMS there being about 4,000 acres of farm or grass land.

The GRAZING portion of the estate, more or less wooded, comprises 6,000 acres, which is supplemented by thousands more subject to control by whoever owns the Park.

A well stocked TROUT STREAM traverses the Park from north to south, about twelve miles of which are contained in the estate. This stream was stocked with the SALMO FONTINALIS, or Eastern trout in 1875-6, and these fish have taken entire possession of its waters, to the exclusion of the inferior native trout. The surrounding forests abound with DEER AND MOUNTAIN GROUSE and other game, affording unexcelled hunting grounds.

Besides the improved farms referred to, there is on the estate THE MANITOU PARK HOTEL, a very popular summer resort for our Colorado people. It is a three-story structure, solidly built of timber on a stone foundation, with stone chimneys. It contains three sitting rooms, sixteen bed rooms, a good kitchen, and servants' rooms and offices. It is appropriately furnished. The range and kitchen appliances are of the best. Two detached cottages, a billiard and ball room, a laundry and a ten-stall livery stable, with coach house for six carriages, form part of the establishment.

The location of the hotel is superb; the surrounding views grand, and it is the favorite summer resort of the citizens of Colorado Springs especially.

Included in the property is an extensive TROUT FARM and large fish ponds. Here, over a magnificent spring gushing out of a limestone cliff, is a large fish hatching house. A five room house, stable, corrals, fish ponds for young fry of different sizes, and a good fenced hay meadow or pasture, complete this establishment. Half a mile from the house is an artificial lake of fifteen acres, which serves as a home or haven for the larger fish to congregate in and mature. Between the big spring and the lake, the water flows through a well protected narrow valley, with willows and brushwood and beaver dams, comprising the most perfect natural surroundings for successful trout culture imaginable.

The improved farms on the estate are in excellent condition and well equipped with farm houses, stables, barns, cattle paddocks, stockyards, blacksmith shops, dairies, milking paddocks, ice houses, etc., etc. Although the RAINFALL in the Park is considerably in excess of that on the plains, several miles of canal are built to supply the necessary water for irrigation.

The barriers erected by nature form sufficient obstacles against encroachment on many parts of the boundary line of the estate, but there are, besides these barriers, eleven miles of fencing, including the fencing on the improved farms.

Many thousands of dollars have been expended on the Park, and it now certainly forms a property which any man might be proud to possess, and is moreover in condition to become a paying investment for any one who will utilize it for all it is worth.

We offer it at a figure much within its cost, and which makes it an exceedingly cheap property.

Parties wishing a more detailed description, with a view to buying, can obtain a pamphlet descriptive of the estate by calling at our office, 104 Tejon street.

The Ranch and Improvements will be Sold Alone or the stock of cows, calves, bulls and steers, thoroughbred Jersey, Swiss and grades, with the farm and driving horses, farm machinery, tools, hay presses, etc., complete in every detail, will be sold with the farm or separately if desired.

Here is a chance which does not often occur of securing a splendid ranch, hay and dairy farm, in a high state of improvement, and furnished in the minutest detail, at a reasonable price. The owner came to Colorado to recover his health, and having done so, his presence is demanded east. Hence he offers "BROADMOOR" for sale.

The proximity of this ranch to the city, makes it particularly desirable for a party whose business would require him to travel frequently to and fro—THE RESIDENCE being exactly three miles from the Colorado Springs post-office.

HAY & PASTURE RANCH

A tract of 1,295 acres commencing two miles from Colorado Springs—all fenced. Raises yearly over 200 tons fine hay; owns private ditch and valuable ditch rights; twenty acres in alfalfa of four years' growth; for the last few years about 1,000 bushels of wheat per annum have been raised; large springs of pure water in several places on the ranch; ranch house of 8 rooms, corrals, stable, barn, etc., wagon, tools, horses go with the ranch. The proximity of this ranch to town makes it a popular place for livery men and others to winter their stock on, and a good income may derived from this source.

Outside of the ranch is a good range for sheep, and it could be made a fine sheep ranch. The owner has got into other business and we can offer this property at a figure which makes it, by long odds, the best bargain we know of in this particular class of property. A descriptive plat of the ranch may be seen at our office.

A GOOD INVESTMENT,

Near Colorado Springs, in a good location, we have a piece of 520 ACRES, fenced with four miles of wire fence; with six never-failing springs on it; abundant grasses for pasture. This is a piece of property which will rapidly advance in value, and a party buying it, at present figures, can hold it as a good and sure investment.

A HOME RANCH

Of 200 ACRES, only one mile from the city limits; all under first-class fence. The Fountain creek runs through it, and 40 acres are under ditch and cultivated. Sixty acres more can be put under ditch at not over $100 expense. Ditch rights, living springs and the Fountain furnish abundant water facilities, and in addition to this the house and lawn can draw water from the Colorado Springs water system, the pipes of which run close to the house. A station on the Manitou railroad is within a few moments' walk. Twenty acres are in grain and 20 acres seeded in blue stem. Forty tons of hay are cut. The grain land yields 70 bushels of oats per acre. The place is well located for and the land adapted to fruit raising, and can be made quite profitable used for this purpose, independent of the hay and grain yield, which alone pays a good interest on the money invested. The improvements consist of a very comfortable two-story frame residence of 8 rooms, with bay window, open grate fireplace, pantries, closets, good cellar, porches on W., N. and S. sides, fine clover lawn, fruit and ornamental trees; large complete stable and barn, with four box stalls and arrangements for four more—stabling for 30 head of horses; cow shed; 3 corrals; henner; chicken yard with wire cloth fence; an 8-ton ice house; other outhouses.

This is a handsome HOME PLACE. For price and more detailed description, apply at our office, 104 Tejon street.

Everything in tip top order. The parties running the business are gentlemen and reliable business men and are making money. One of them is compelled to sell out for good reasons, and hence this offer, which, we feel convinced, will soon be snapped up. Here is a chance that seldom presents itself, for a young man to step into a good, ready-made sheep farming business, wherein he can become fully educated in association with congenial partners. VERY LITTLE READY MONEY is required to seize this opportunity, and only six per cent will be charged on deferred payments, on which long time will be given.
